

POLAR BEARS SOLUTION – MARCH THE SEVENTH

Each line of text comprises two words or phrases with their letters in sequential order, but interwoven. One entry reads forward, and the other reads back.

Entries can be paired (each pair having an entry running in each direction) into specific categories. Since the pair parts are in different lines, a looping chain can be formed. A third entry in each category may be found, each of which contains the word WHITE. Align the third entries to the indices at the bottom of the page; only one orientation allows the adjacent 9's to hit long words. Indexed letters in the given order spell MARCH THE SEVENTH.
